SEED GRAINS

Write for prices when in the market.

Marquis Spring Wheat. The heaviest yielding spring wheat grown in the Northwest. Heads are beardless, chaff smooth and kernel dark amber in color. Very heavy and grades as hard wheat.

Kinney Wheat. An old standard wheat that has been grown for years here and always produces a good crop. May be sown either fall or spring.

White Winter Wheat. This is the favorite variety for this section of the valley especially for the prairie and lower lands. Planted in fall and early winter.

White Holland Wheat. This variety is becoming very popular and has proven a very good variety. Plant in fall and early winter.

Red Oats. This variety is becoming more popular each year and is a good yielder and makes a first class hay. Sow in late spring.

Kanato Oats. This oat has proven satisfactory for certain types of soil. A heavy yielder and produces a good grain, also good hay. Sow both fall and spring.

Black Spring Oats. A very heavy producer on certain types of soil.

White Hullless Oats. Sow in the spring about April or early May. Produces a heavy oat without a hull. Fine feed. Lb. postpaid, 15c; not postpaid, 100 lbs. $4.00.

Gray Oats. Sown both fall and early spring and the standard oat for this valley and western Washington and Oregon.

White Oats. Have some very choice seed oats of this well known variety, clean and fine quality.

Spring Rye. Makes a good crop sown in the spring.

Fall Rye. Always makes a crop and can be sown on poor land that will not raise other grain. Makes an abundance of pasture and green feed and also a fine cover crop for orchards and berries.

Hanchean Spring Barley. Usually does best on light land but is grown nearly everywhere.

Fall Barley. Barley is being planted in the fall and has proven very productive. The acreage has increased several hundred per cent the last year and farmers are well satisfied with the results.

Trebi Barley. A six row barely that is a heavy producer.

Cheat Seed. Recleaned. This is used as a hay crop especially on wet lands and when cut and taken care of at the right time makes a good hay.

Canada Field Peas. Field peas are becoming more popular every year. They make a good hay; make a great hog feed and are used for silos.

Austrian Peas. This is the new variety that is being sown in the valley the past few years. Makes an immense amount of hay or green feed. Also a fine ensilage. Also used as a cover crop and from tests made is possibly the finest of all the cover crops as it carries more nitrogen than any other plant so used.

VETCHES

Write for Prices

Oregon Vetch (Common Vetch). One of the best forage plants grown on the Pacific Coast. It furnishes an abundance of green, makes a fine hay; used for silos, pasture, and is unexcelled as a cover crop.

Hungarian Vetch. It seems to be adapted for land too heavy and wet for common vetch; is aphid proof; seems to stand more freezing than other vetches and is very productive.

Sand or Hairy Vetch. This thrives on poor, arid, sandy soil, but will grow anywhere. Is a winter vetch and should be planted in fall when to be cut for crop or seed. Can be seeded in spring for pasture.

Vetch and Oats. This is a mixture prepared for hay and is the usual mixture sown in this valley. Consists of recleaned grey winter oats and Oregon vetch.

Purple Vetch. This is used as a cover crop only.

Enjoy Better Lawns, Flowers and Gardens by using VIGORO

There is no secret in having a velvety lawn, colorful flowers, crisp, succulent vegetables, luxuriant shrubbery, and stately trees.

You can enjoy these beauties of nature if you use good seed, plants, bulbs, and the right plantfood. The right plantfood is important because plants must be fed the same as human beings.

VIGORO provides an economical, practical, and effective way to secure finest results. Economical because the cost is only 10c to 20c for every 100 square feet. Practical because it is clean, odorless, easy to apply—can be sown by hand like grass seed or applied with an ordinary kitchen colander. Effective because it contains all of the elements of plantfood required to produce early, vigorous growth, and bring fruit, flowers and foliage to full development.

Complete directions in every bag.
